The Nation Honors Him

The passing of time fails to dim the nation's memory of Abraham Lincoln. Today, the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of his birth, it pauses to honor the man who rose from rail-splitter to president and won a place in history through his guidance of the country in one of its darkest periods. Abraham Lincoln was born on February 12, 1809, was elected president in 1860 and again in 1864 and died on April 15, 1865, the day after he was shot while attending a theater in Washington. This portrait of him is a sketch after the bust modelled by Andrew O'Connor for the state house at Providence, L. I.

Lincoln Bust By O'Connor

See State Journal 6/30/36

This bust of Abraham Lincoln stands before the state capitol building in Providence, R. I. The work is that of Andrew O'Connor, who was reared in Providence and rose from a stonecutter to a high place in the art world as a sculptor. The statue of Lincoln bidding farewell to Springfield, before the Illinois state house, is also O'Connor's work.
